Events in and About the City Given in a Nutshell.

The brillian: evening reception of the week was given by Hon, and Mrs. Nelson E. Whitaker at their handsome home on South Chapline street in honor of their nephew, Mr. N. Price Whitaker, and his bride, nee Miss Roeeling, or Wilkesbarre, Pa. The house was beautifully appointed and a gay assemblage, made up of the younger and older society sets, filled the rooms from 8 until 12. Mrs. Schoyer, of Pittsburgh, last eve-ning addressed the Wheeling auxiliaries of the Women's Home Mission Society. Mrs. Isabella S. Arthur, wife of the late Rev. Richard A. Arthur, died at her home in Addison, W. Va., Decem-ber b, at the age of seventy-five years.

The Golden Star Rod and Gun Club will give a masquerade ball, at Moxart hall, Christmas night, December 25, for which Summers' orchestra will play. Miss Bessie Harrison, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Harrison, of the Island, and one of the most popular and attractive of the "debutantes," is ill at the family residence, on North Front street. The family friends and the many personal friends of the young girl hope for a speedy recovery.

hope for a speedy recovery.

The marriage of Miss Ethel M. Balley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Balley, one of Wheeling's distinctively beautiful girls, to Mr. Robert C. Hasse, of St. Paul, will be solemnized at the Fourth Streat Methodist Episcopal church next Wednesday evening, by Rev. J. L. Sooy. The church ceremony will be followed by a reception to the bridal party at the Balley home, Pleasant Valley. Miss Balley will be attended by her younger sister, Miss Jeannette Balley, as strikingly a beautiful girl of the brunette type as the bride is of the blonde. Mr. N, Austin, of Chicago, will do escort honors to Mr. Hause, while the invitted guests will be served through the courtasles of Mr. A. Allen Wheat, Mr. Harry Simpson, Mr. George Baird, Mr. Steve Rice, Mr. Lawrence Wheat and Mr. Julian G. Hearne. The event of greatest interest throughout the city and nearby towns, now in talk, is the coming Charity ball to be given at the McLure Tuesday night following Christmas. All society, young and old, men and women, is eagerly anticipating the evening, as it is to be the smartest function in arrangement and dress witnessed in this city for years. For members of society not interested in the different cotillion clubs now in go, or in dancing at large as participants, card rooms have been arranged, and euchre and whist devotees are all to have their particular diversion catered to. Congenial card parties may be formed before that evening, and tables for the required number of sets arranged will be supplied by the ladies in charge of the ball. Any of the following of the entertainment committee of the Hospital association may be addressed on that subject, and from them tickets of admission may also be obtained: Mrs. Charles Howard Simpson, Mrs. B. Walker Peterson, Mrs. George Wise, Mrs. Jacob W. Grubb, Mrs. T. C. Moffat, Mrs. Howard Haslett, Mrs. Julius Pollock, Mrs. Charles Howard Simpson, Mrs. B. Two well-known business men wh enjoy a day in the woodland wilds with dog and gun are grieving over their experience one day this week. They planned for a rabbit hunt and in order to be properly fitted out purchased a rabbit dog, which was dispatched them know dogs. Now there are dogs and there are dogs. A rabbit dog is one of these, but all are not as he. The fes the unitiated nimrods he lacked no essential attributes. But then, they didn't know.

So away they went to the region about Triadelphia, the two men and the dog. Sad to relate, they eventually emerged into a field of sheep, and it was here where Brer Dog began to get was here where Brer Dog began to get in his work. Like a fash he had hold of a chunk of animate wool, doubtless intending to convey it into asbestos. "For God's sake, shoot him," said Andy to his comrade. "He's no rabbit dog," but calling the dog off resulted in fali-ure, and Zeke blazed away. Zeke isn't a Bero and his bullet for the dog went wild. Another bullet sped forth. It Filled the sheen.

wild. Another billet sped forth. It killed the sheep.

Then the frightened cantoes flew across the field to none knows where, and an trate farmer loomed up in hostile array. His demands were complied with. The Wheeling hunters paid him $5 for his dead mutton and returned to the city sadder but wiser men.

A thoughtful young merchant is disturbed over the "rainy day skirt," now wafted into fashion and succeeding in winning favor as a sensible garment should. The merchant is pussed to determine the ages of the wearers, he says, in their Market street promendes. "They all look allke to me." he explains, "Sometimes my range of vision detects the approach of, a matty-looking school maid, but, lo and behold! on her arrival she withers and fades into a matronly old soul. It's kind of nice, though, to see how the old ladies are taking to these rainy day skirts. are taking to these rainy day skirts But they certainly show up the size o their feet."

"There's a peculiar thing about our business," remarked the liveryman. "One day the demand is all for single horse rigs and the next day it's all double. In the summer months we take many advance orders for rigs for Sunday, and one Sunday everybody seems to go for single rigs, and maybe, the next, they'll want a team. It's the most in-and-out business in the directory, is the livery business."

A FARMERS' CAWDIDATE

For State Treasurer-Interesting Talk With Mr. S. W. Atkinson

A reporter of the Intelligencer yester day met Mr. S. W. Atkinson, of Brooke county, who was in the city on his way home from an extended visit to the in terior of the state, where he attended a number of Farmers' Institutes in Berke ley, Morgan, Tucker, Randolph and Up shur counties. Mr. Atkinson says that the progress that is being made in that section of the state is something mar velous. He found all the farmers busy and in a most cheerful state of mind as to the future. They are receiving good prices for everything, especially cattle horses and sheep. The development of norses and sneep. The development of coal properties and the activity in the lumber industry is a matter that would have been a strain on his credulity had he been told of it, but having been an eye-witness he is glad to be able to spread the good tidings of the state's convert march. ward march. "How about politics, Mr. Atkinson?

"How about politics, Mr. Atkinson?"
queried the reporter.
"Well, I found the political situation
in pretry goodshape, and I see no reason why the Republicans should not sweep
the state next year. I am an old line Republican, having cast my first vote for Lincoln. I want to see the farmers represented on the state ticket. I think the agricultural interests should have representation on the state board of public works."

"How would it strike you to allow your name to be used?"

"Well, to tell the truth, I have been pressed by the farmers of the state to allow my name to be used as a candidate for state treasurer, and I may say that if the convention should think! I am the right man I will pitch in and work to win."

AMUSEMENTS.

The finest attraction of the season, Robert B. Mantell and company, in the dramatization of Joseph Hatton's "The Dagger and the Cross," attracted a large and brilliant audience to the Opera House last night. The play replete with dramatic climaxes, and Mr Mantell's interpretation of the leading character, Bernardo Roubillac, the painter, is artistic, finished and strong throughout, Miss Marie Booth-Russell throughout. Miss Marie Booth-Russell, as Francesca, the wife, was equally satisfying; in fact, the support of the star was at all times everything that could be desired. Curtain calls were in order, and at the conclusion of the very exciting second act Mr. Mantell and Miss Booth-Russell twice responded. Mr. G. A. Stryker's "finish" (to use a slang expression), in this same act, was a magnificent piece of acting. Manager Hanley promises the return of his star next season, an announcement that will be season, an announcement that will be received with pleasure.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin." The E. F. Davis company, in a preten tious and spectacular production of "Un-cle Toms' Cabio," is the attraction at the Opera House this afternoon and to-night. The ascent of Little Eva to Heaven is described as thrilling and beautiful.

Isham's Octoroons.

Isham's Octoroons attracted another large audience to the Grand Opera House last night. The evidences of appreciation were many, and most of the musical and vaudeville features were ncored. The entertainment is not a urlesque, but a high grade vaudeville and operatic performance by the very best talent in the Afro-American race. The round of operatic selections is a stellar feature. The Octoroons will conclude their engagement with mati-nee and night performances to-day.
